SUBSCRIPTION $2.00 PER YEAR

Items From The Battery

Promotion of B.M. Ronald J. Clark of Clapton, the rank of full Lieutenant in the 22nd (B) Field Battery Royal Canadian Artillery, has been announced by headquarters of the 41st Reserve Brigade Group at Calgary. Mr. Clark enlisted in the Reserves in August, 1940, and was from the ranks to be promoted to the rank of Battery Sergeant Major in June 1944. He fills the vacancy created by the transfer of Lieutenant Nelson to the Southern Alberta Regiment, Medicine Hat.

Commenting on the effects of blast precautions have had on English civilians, Mr. J. H. D. Lloyd of London says: "There can hardly be a home in southern England which has not recently rearranged its furniture with a view to safety from blast of robot bombs, rather than decorative looks. We have also become more aware after tests of living down where we may be, in moments of danger. There is really an art in doing this effectively, as you must not lie flat, but support just off the ground by elbows and knees, but the British, through the war, do an amazing number of things to your interest. Blast is a serious subject of discussion and study nowadays."

Congratulations to Sgt. P. Mahon and his appointment as manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce in a town near Edmonton. This means that Pat will be leaving the unit shortly. He will be highly missed for his good humour and his sense of humour, though, and it must be added he did a lot of other work that very few knew about.

When the last war ended there were only twelve commissioned Indian officers in the Indian Army. The process of Indianisation has progressed so rapidly in the years before the war that now there are 300 and the number has grown enormously from some 200,000 in 1938 to the present strength of 2,350,000 Indians of whom 10,000 are Indian officers. It is to be expected that the officers in the Indian Army. The policy is to increase that percentage as rapidly as is practical until there are 100 percent Indian Indian divisions are formed in India. Army and British Army units are being put together. Originally the Indian army followed a policy of placing Indian officers in command only of Indian troops. This policy has now been abandoned. In India, Indian officers may both have European and Indian troops under their command.

FARMERS LOOK TO THE FUTURE AND SO DO THEIR WIVES

By Frances I. McKay, Director, Women's Work, Manitoba Department of Agriculture.

Note—This is the second of a series of comments by well-known prairie authorities written expressly for the Weekly Press of Western Canada.

Or perhaps wives just dream—dream about the things they would like to have made the home more convenient and comfortable for the family. One farmer's wife tells me she has had a dream coming true. When she and her husband in Victory Bonds her husband puts some in his wife's name and these are to be used for improvements which could be made on their present home.

What are some of the improvements women dream about? I can tell you because some of the women have just been telling me. New homes for sons, new conveniences in the home. In sober instances, but many of them express a desire for improvements which could be made on their present homes.

Rural women would like to be able to have electricity and at a cost they could afford. They would like many women during their lives, have a guaranteed tons of water in and out, that they feel an adequate supply of water and a drainage system are two things which would greatly simplify work in the home.

ROLF THEIRS OF CANADA: Chief Engineer T. M. Atkinson, R.C.N., and E. E. Vick, O.B.E., veterans of the North Atlantic, were honoured by King and Queen for their gallantry in the North Atlantic. Capt. E. McKillop, M.B.E., highly praised for his handling of a C.P.R.-operated ship on D-Day; and Chief Engineer E. E. Vick, O.B.E., awarded Lloyd's War Medal late in 1944 "for bravery at sea".

Kitchens are the workshops of the women in our homes. Many do a good job of preserving and canning. Family meals and conserving surplus food, having to have the tools with which they have to work. Women dream of the opportunity of remodeling their old kitchens—having working surfaces of canvas or vegetable oil paper, cupboards for equipment, food and cleaning supplies; a refrigerator to keep the food supplies fresh for a longer period of time.

The basement of the home, or the lack of a properly constructed base-ment, is another area of concern. What would they like? A basement constructed so that it can be a very useful part of the house, where cupboards and bin can be made to provide storage for canned vegetables, dried fruits, equipment. Our women write, "I have lived in small medium and large houses and never had a decent basement until we built our own house. We could not afford a large or elaborate house so just tried to make the best of what we had in our basement and from my experience I say anyone who plans to build a new farm home, be sure that the house has a good basement."

Farm women would like to express the need for an extra room or a utility room, where the cream separator and washing machine could be kept, also where there would be a place for the men to wash up and prepare for camp or civilian rubber. This, those women say, would be a lot of tracking into the house. Some suggest that this could be done in the basement but only if the entrance to the basement were handy to the out doors.

Some women, in telling what they would like to have, also told us what they like about the house in which they live now. One woman mentioned that she had a basement entrance which gives you a few steps up to the kitchen on the first floor and a few more down to the basement. The vegetables can be brought in without tracking dirt through the house and the sash can be taken out without having to walk from the basement stairs to the back door! A utility room in the basement has decided advantages with a grade entrance. One farm woman tells about having the basement completely finished with a bathroom, a sunroom, combined, and adjacent wash-up room and a place to hang coats. These are a few of the things women would like to have in their homes, not for themselves alone, but to be shared and enjoyed by all members of the family.

From the letters which come to my desk it is clear that many farm women are not just wishing and hoping for the things which will lessen the drudgery of home, but the present complete absence of comforts. Not all. Many are actively planning to make their dreams come true when the war is over and because these plans will require money—these women are seeing to it that, out of pocket extra income, the farm savings, the savings days, the savings of savings now being put into Victory Bonds are earmarked "For the

GLEANINGS FROM CAPITAL—OTTAWA

Canada and Germany are at war with each other—but both of them have a common enemy, the weather. This is the enemy that rots wood, rusts steel and upsets precision instruments. In the pain lab of the National Research Council at Ottawa, a new method of protection may be achieved in a few days, apparatus devised to duplicate the ravages of weather. The result? In many cases, perhaps, the new and new kinds of paint and new methods of applying it are being used every day. A typical paint problem areas follows:

When the shortage of stoves made it necessary to build non-combustible arm-trunks, made of wood, to protect the wood and steel had to be protected from the weather and also from each other. A process was devised by which the wood and the steel were treated separately before being joined. The final coat of paint over both steel and wood did the trick.

CANADIAN HEL-DIVER

The most powerful dive bomber in the world today—the Curtis Hell-Diver is being produced in two Canadian aircraft works. One of every four of these vicious planes—being turned out for the benefit of the Japanese—is Canadian made. As fast as a fighter and big enough to carry over 1,500 pounds of bombs, the Curtis Hell-Diver is able to land on the newest aircraft carrier. Attention, Hiroshima!

LETS WHEAT, PLEASE!

With the year's wheat statistics in, members of the Dominion Provincial Agricultural Council are reporting that Canada reduces its wheat acreage by 500,000 acres in 1945, and increase its coarse grain acreage to provide feed reserves for livestock. The reason? Canadian wheat production totals 150 million bushels, a little more than half of the fact that the Argentine 1944 crop is only two-thirds of its average 1932-41 crops and that Australia less than a third. Agricultural leaders feel that there is plenty of wheat on hand to meet any demands made on it.

JUNGLE FIGHTING STUDIED

It's certainly not a Cook's tour being enjoyed by a party of Canadian officers, but they are covering just as much ground! For four months they have been in India and Burma serving as jungle experts. After a month's division against the Japs, and making a first hand study of jungle fighting conditions in the Far East. Just how firm hand it was may be judged from the fact that one was wounded in the leg in a jungle fight and was captured by the enemy and only escaped by quick thinking and decisive action. They are completing their tour by visiting navy, army and air force installations, and will return to Britain this month.

A Land Of Opportunity

IN THE PAST, CANADA has been able to attract many people here because of our good railway systems were built and our rich land and mineral deposits opened up, by men who had confidence in the future of the country. The difficult times experienced during the drought and depression of the "thirties" caused some to doubt whether there were any longer many possibilities for development in Canada. But we have proved that we have the will to work upon our resources and resources, as has demonstrated that we should be able to deal equally well with peace-time needs. One of the greatest of these needs will be to provide opportunities for the many thousands of men and women who will be returning to civilian life, and for the generation now growing up in Canada.

May Have Hope

For The Future

other factors of attack, and Canada is one of the few countries which can expect to remain completely with its industries and communications intact. Because of the needs of war, most of our industries and resources have been expanded, and intensive research and invention have led to many new developments. Canada has also expanded considerably as a world power during the war years. We now rank third among the United Nations in sea power, and fourth in air power. In addition, Canada's geographic position has made her an important factor in assisting with the establishment of a closer relationship and better understanding between Great Britain and the United States.

Supplies Many

World Needs

It is also apparent that we hold an important position in relation to world affairs of the present day, and that this will continue to develop. In a recent battle fought in the Royal Bank of Canada it is pointed out that although there are only a little over eleven million people here, making up but a small proportion of the total world population, we have, by industry and initiative, achieved a leading place in the production of many of the world's needs. In addition, we have maintained a sound economic standing, both at home and in international markets.

The belief exists that "it is not what we did yesterday, but what we do tomorrow that makes for greatness." Much has been accomplished in the past, but Canada is still a land of opportunity for those who have confidence in her many potentialities.

HOW YOU CAN GET QUICK RELIEF FROM SORE, PAINFUL PILES

Most people seem to think the only way to get relief from their sore, painful piles is by local treatment. Local treatment may be effective in some cases, but you can easily see why it prove itself. You can make your test treatment at home.

Arabs in Middle East Use These As Eye Shields

Thousands of Arabs in the Middle East desert wear cellulose acetate transparent eye-shields originally supplied to British troops of the 8th, 9th and 10th Armies. Hundreds of these shields have been reproduced in Britain originally to protect the eyes of soldiers and A.R.P. workers against poison gas. In the Middle East they have proved invaluable for protecting the eyes of sandstorms and dust, sand and the glare of the sun, both for soldiers and civilians. The shields are particularly valuable in saving Arab children from the eye infections common in the desert.

B. X. Plastics, Limited, the British firm most prominently associated with their development and manufacture, considers that an anti-war market has been created in the Middle East and also the Far East for this British wartime commodity.

THE RESISTANT PAINT
 Two fire-resistant paints for ship use have come out of the war so far. One of them, for use mainly on steel, will discolour but will not burn when brought into contact with fire. The second goes after paper and insulation acts as a fire extinguisher, by giving off a fire-smothering vapor when exposed to flames. It is used largely for the protection of the woodwork of a ship.

Marshall Rommel Was Great Gambler

Says Field Marshal Smuts

It is somewhat surprising to find Field Marshal Rommel, who at the age of 53 died of wounds received in the "Times" as his "greatest masterpiece" as a gambler rather than a great soldier will certainly be endorsed by the best critics of all field marshals.

The only military success

achieved by Rommel—the tank thrust vantage of mechanical and artillery armament.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY

Someone Else

By — MARY C. MACKAY

McClure Newspaper Syndicate

He had always thought he had this love business figured out. It just meant having a girl like Kay, with whom you always feel comfortable, who understood talk about engines or new auto models, who could fix the wireless when it stopped.

Now he wasn't so sure. If that was love, what was this? He wiped his forehead. "Whew, can't think."

Jeanne didn't know a nut from a bolt, but when he was with her he could hardly differentiate between them himself. All he could see was a pair of sea-green eyes and a freckled nose.

That was another funny thing. He remembered when, during his last leave, he had said to Kay: "You know, Kay, I wouldn't mind you going out with fellow boys again, while I'm here." But Jimmy! "Doh—why, he's so far beneath you! Besides, he's a funny looking guy, and you're—you're beautiful," he had started to say. Kay's lovely complexion, her soft-gold curly hair, it was the first time he had ever told her she was beautiful.

She had looked at him querulously with her dark eyes. "Freddie, I like you, making me happy. You don't love people like we are, or what they look like. I love you because you're you." Then with a twinkle in her eye, she added: "I don't even love you any better now since you've grown so handsome, than I did when you were nine years old and hadn't any front teeth."

"Well, I'll be thinking of your wearing this while I'm — — — It'll be sort of an understanding. Will you tell it, Kay?"

Kay's eyes had misted. "Freddie, are you sure? Perhaps you'll meet someone else."

"No, there will be no one else. How sure can it be?"

He had blushed. "Promise me one thing, Freddie. Remember you asked me last leave for a picture of myself to put in your folder? Well, I'll do one for you. But I want you to promise me faithfully, until you've met someone else. And when you do, just take out the picture and put her in. You can send mine back to me, and I'll know I'm to send the ring back."

He had smiled. "I promise."

It had seemed ridiculous then that he should ever have taken such a step. He picked up the little case now and looked into Kay's dark eyes. She smiled out at him. He set the folder up against his lamp, and ran his fingers through her hair. It belonged right there—and yet he had promised! —What was he to do?

He had met someone else—someone he wanted so badly he had to have her. He picked up a small freckled nose and a little twisted smile. He groaned as he glanced at Kay's face again. If she were only here now, he would have told her, she'd understand and help him.

She had always helped him out of difficulties. To take her picture out and send it back seemed so cruel. He knew he must do that, but Kay's honest eyes seemed to say, "Remember the promise!"

Jeanne's pert little face wouldn't be right in the folder anyway. It belonged in the pocket of his coat. He had started to say, "Kay's lovely complexion, her soft-gold curly hair, it was the first time he had ever told her she was beautiful."

He had looked at her quickly with her dark eyes. "Freddie, I like you, making me happy. You don't love people like we are, or what they look like. I love you because you're you."

Then with a twinkle in her eye, she added: "I don't even love you any better now since you've grown so handsome, than I did when you were nine years old and hadn't any front teeth."

"Well, I'll be thinking of your wearing this while I'm — — — It'll be sort of an understanding. Will you tell it, Kay?"

Kay's eyes had misted. "Freddie, are you sure? Perhaps you'll meet someone else."

Cost Will Be Heavy

But Allies Firm In Their Demand For Unconditional Surrender

The majority of will, we believe, endorse Prime Minister Churchill's reiteration in Parliament of the demand that unconditional surrender be imposed until our condition surrenders has been obtained. The phrase, "unconditional surrender," has been criticized in the press as being groundless, if it only acted as a spur to the Germans. The Royal Air Force had the Lancaster known as "Maid" that surely deserves more picturesque name.

"Maid" has made 97 bombing trips to Germany, five to Italy and 37 to other countries, including a record total of 139 bombing trips. During that time she consumed 193,800 gallons of gasoline, and flew 969 operational hours.

This veteran of aerial operations must have been shot at and hit many times. She must have been in many hot spots, but she had her "ergs" and brought her crew back safely with a record of extraordinary safety. She is the only aircraft in every one of her 139 trips they would still all be alive.

She is what seaman would call "a happy ship." —St. Thomas Times Herald.

Should Be Careful

Very Few Adults Are Physically Able To Give Birth Safely

The question who should move snow from the sidewalk is not one of sex of chivalry, but of heart and muscles; Dr. Francis E. Froncak, Buffalo City Health Commissioner.

"Actually few adults are physically fit for the arduous task of removing snow," he asserted. Emphasizing that a question of persons overcomes with shoveling snow during the recent blizzard, he said.

"If the wife puts in a goodly share of time scrubbing floors, washing walls and wresting the wash, she may be better equipped to move snowbanks than her husband who sits in an office all day."

Elderly persons and those physically soft should shun snow shoveling because "snow shoveling can bring on a heart attack by acute dilation of the heart."

This Week's Pattern

Deserves Better Name

Lancaster Bomber Has Had Most Remarkable Career

Sailors have a habit of speaking of some veteran liner as "The Grand Old Lady of the Atlantic," as in the case of the Queen Mary. Sailors speak affectionately of some old locomotive which has had decades of service, calling it by some such name as "Old Granny."

The Royal Air Force had the Lancaster known as "Maid" that surely deserves more picturesque name.

Situation Changed

British Columbia Now Importing Instead Of Exporting Coal

British Columbia is importing more coal than it exports. In fact, it imports one-third of the coal it consumes. Just 35 years ago it was exporting coal, it was revealed by Hon. E. C. Carson, provincial minister of mines.

BC mines produced 1,843,328 tons of coal in 1944 compared with 1,943,000 tons in 1943.

James Dickson, chief inspector of mines, estimated imports from Alberta in 1944 totalled more than 1,000,000 tons, compared with 1943 imports totalling 960,000 tons.

POTATO CREAM SOUP

1 qt. peeled sliced white potatoes
1 cup minced celery tops
1 1/2 tablespoons minced parsley
1 small onion, sliced

2 cups boiling water
1/2 cup hot milk
1 teaspoon salt

1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 cup cream

Combine the potatoes, celery, parsley and onions in a medium-sized kettle and add the boiling water. Cook covered until the potatoes are tender, then drain and strain through a sieve, saving the potato water. Add the milk, bring to a boil, add the salt and pepper. When creamy, add the cream and pepper. Serve with crisp crackers.

The annual Red Cross Society's campaign for funds will start the week of March 6th. Watch for further announcements.

Mrs. R. James who recently underwent an operation in Calgary is now reported to be up and around and expects to come home for a visit with her parents.

P.O. Leslie Menard left a week ago Monday for Grand Prairie. The next day his parents received a telegram that he had already arrived there. Evidently he met up with an airplane somewhere and got a lift.

Albert Riddell has left for Edmonton where he is attending the university.

John Rodenbush, R.C.N., arrived home last week on furlough from Halifax. His father has been quite ill in the Bassano hospital for several weeks past but is now much improved in health.

Bob Dobson who is living in Calgary slipped on an icy street the other day and broke three ribs.

Better deal for the Alberta motorists both in respect to lowering of license fees and improved highways was urged when a delegation from the Alberta Motor Association recently interviewed members of the provincial cabinet. The representations from the A.M.A. were well received and the government would make no commitments. While it was stated by some cabinet ministers that they would like to carry out improvements suggested by the A.M.A., they pointed out on the other hand, the difficulties of financing such undertakings. The delegation emphasized the need of lower license fees for motorists, which is something the A.M.A. has been fighting for consistently for years, and it intends to keep up its demands for a downward revision of fees. Better highways are of importance, particularly as Alberta must prepare for the influx of tourist business that will follow the opening of the post-war period.

Rubber supplies are still tight and we will need to produce more, says the tire controller, giving the following tips on tire conservation: Watch the alignment of your front wheels. Any time you hit a curb or other object, turn hard blow, if it is in or out, may wear a new tire completely through its tread in a few hundred miles. Then match your front and two black tires, take off one tire and put it on the front. Every three and a half years, one British housewife can buy one kettle every three years and a half years, one saucepan every two years, one buckle every four years. Only one knife, fork and spoon can be purchased by a woman in five years. These no-petrol cards or basic pattern rationing in England.

GLEANINGS FROM OTTAWA

Canadian listening public, a report recently issued by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, reveals that more than half the commercial time of the CBC is devoted to drama.

Next in popularity are programs of light music, women's programs, talks and news. The most popular program is the news, followed by children's programs. But the expert will assure that one eight inch maximum difference is there. Otherwise one tire carries more than its share of the load and will wear out faster. The rear tire should be in A1 condition. With alignment under control, have your garage men test the camber, caster, kingpin inclination, springs, shock absorbers, wheel balance and the ball bearings.

The Gleichen branch of the Red Cross, together with the Calgary Mobile Blood Donor Clinic, took this opportunity to thank those who helped at the Clinic held here on Wednesday morning, February 4th. Miss Burton, charge-in-charge, reported 81 blood donors, 9 rejects, 27, 680 OCS of blood being taken the total amount. We thank the donors for their kind co-operation in keeping their appointments.

The following, taken from the London Daily Express and sent by a local soldier to relatives here, is of interest to Canadians: If you were in England you could buy one suit of

CERTAINLY ENOUGH

It is now evident that the next federal general election is to be an unprecedentedly scintillating and exciting affair between the "veteran" parties.

It is estimated that there will be more than 500 contestants in the field for the 222 constituencies.

There will be a multitude of three-ways contests, many four-cornered battles and several ridings in which there will be five or more candidates. In this case the national campaign will be a free-for-all on a scale never before equalled.

The liberal party is the only one which plans to have candidates in every riding in Canada. The C.C.P. will have candidates in 222 and the Progressive Conservatives plan to have more than 200. The Labor Progressive party intends to have 75 to 80 nominees, mainly in urban industrial constituencies. The Social Credit, Quebec, Canadian Party and Union National will likely all have candidates in the field—eight parties in addition to a probably third wild crop of independent candidates. Under such circumstances, it may be another name for the federal election to attract support outside the straight Duplessis supporters.

MONEY IN CANADA

Ordinary day-day Canadians each have $150 more cash in their pockets or in the bank than when the war started. They also hold an average of $350 in war bonds for every man, woman and child in the nation. This sum is not matched by any other nation in the world.

Individuals hold by corporations or financial institutions. This was revealed in the annual report of the publicly-owned Bank of Canada covering 1944 operations.

The report also showed that the Canadian government spent $17,000,000,000 on the war, more than 10 times as much as Canada spent in the first world war and a total of $20,000,000,000 since the war started. Of this huge sum half has been paid by taxation and current taxation.

On the other hand, the $6,000,000,000 has been financed by war bonds bought and retained by individual Canadians, which means the ordinary man and woman in all sections of the country.

Last year the Bank of Canada made credits of $20,300,000 of which it paid $18,500,000 to the federal treasury after adding $2,000,000 to the reserve fund as required by law.
